The Problematic Crow's Reality

by ghostie ft. OLIVER

Uplooaded at Youtube on 30 June, 2014

If I recall, I can't make sense of anything
And every day I feel like everything is just a dream
If I recall the paragraphs I spoke today,
They lacerate my throat like crows tearing it away

Even now I feel the same, I've been removed from my own head
I linger by fluorescent lights
On corroded walls and doors, in the air and on the floors
I'm stained in rust and feathers

Unbelievable!
Faces shift into one kind
The crow is watching from above at all times,
Cawing nonsense in a fake reality
Now vivid colors represent lividity
Something is crawling through a hole inside my mind
The stimulated neurons repeat visible signs
As the days go by, life in this community
will turn to nothing other than my own insanity

If I recall the inner workings of our heads,
I'll find that everything is truly worthless in the end

(See, believe, and repeat
See, believe, and repeat
See, believe, and repeat
See, believe, and repeat)

We believe the dreams you see are pieces of reality and Even when the crows are screaming, everything will be ok, so please believe the dreams you see are pieces of reality and Even when the crows are screaming, kill your mind and put an end to this

Even now I feel the same, I've been removed from my own head
This game was taken much too far
Pull the optic nerve away, now I feel like throwing stones
At crows who laugh in your face

Unbelievable!
Thoughts of death race through my skin
My hollow stomach can't break down what's happening here
Call it nonsense, this is what it really means
Now livid feelings supersede my confusion
Something that sounds a little bit like suspicion
Will be the only thing that's left inside my carcass
As the days go by, life in this community
Will turn to nothing other than my own insanity

Three, two, one, go

Unbelievable!

Faces shift into one kind
The crow is watching from above at all times,
Cawing nonsense in a fake reality
Now vivid colors represent lividity